What area are we focused on?

Our organization will be focusing on pollution including various aspects, including air pollution, water pollution, soil contamination and their impacts on the ecosystem and human health.

3

Problems and Objectives

- Make a detailed evaluation of the target area's various forms of pollution (air, water, and soil)
- Examine how pollution affects local communities, wildlife, ecosystems, and human health
- Examine the existing local, state, federal, and international pollution control regulations and determine any weaknesses and make suggestions on improving regulatory systems
- Investigate and evaluate cutting-edge technologies for mitigation, control, and remediation of pollution and provide suggestions on how to implement affordable and sustainable technologies
- Provide practical waste management techniques to cut down on pollution from plastic and other wastes and encourage recycling programs and the decrease of single-use plastics

How will our organization help the cause?

- We will get involved in our local communities to learn about their experiences with pollution and to acquire ideas for possible remedies and educate people about the value of pollution control by running educational campaigns.
- Environmental solutions to pollution involve a combination of prevention, mitigation, and remediation strategies aimed at reducing pollution levels and protecting ecosystems and human health.

Public Campaign

- Host workshops and seminars to educate the public about the sources and impacts of air pollution, as well as solutions to improve air quality. Topics may include the importance of reducing vehicle emissions, transitioning to clean energy, and minimizing industrial pollution.
- Organize community events such as tree-planting, bike
